Dear friends and neighbors,

Come to our yard sale and concert at Hillford School on October 14!

We are collecting money for KIDS.

KIDS (Kids Involved and Doing Stuff) helps children in our local community. It helps them to buy school supplies and sports equipment. It also provides help with homework and organizes free vaccination days twice a year. It's run by kid volunteers, and it's a great organization!

For our yard sale, we need books, toys, and clothes. Please put them in a bag. Some students will pick them up on October 10 (or you can drop them off at the school).

The yard sale starts at 3 p.m. on October 14. The concert is at 5 p.m. We hope you can all come!

Thank you,

The students of Hillford School

Lesson 2

How do you design, construct, and test your solution?

Design and Construct a Prototype

After choosing a solution, engineers design and construct a prototype, or a model, to test its efficacy. The prototype takes into consideration all the choices engineers made. For the wheeled backpack, for example, engineers choose the best material for it to be sturdy and durable, the best wheels for it to roll easily on different surfaces, and the best handle for it to provide a firm grip.

Test the Prototype

Now it is time to test whether the prototype meets the requirements and expectations. In order to test whether the wheeled backpack will solve the students' needs, for example, engineers need to measure the capacity and weight the backpack can hold; estimate the friction the wheels create on the ground; and consider the appropriate size and material, the sturdiness of the material, and the firmness of the handle.

1. Correct the sentences.
 - 1 You have to build a prototype before choosing the solution.

 - 2 The prototype is a plan of the solution.

 - 3 To test whether the prototype works, you should make several models.

2.  In small groups, discuss how you would test the efficacy of the wheels of your wheeled backpack.
